BIO: Sarah was raised by enthusiastic, open-minded parents who wholeheartedly supported her choice to go to the Savannah College of Art and Design and major in Fibers and Textile design. There, she fell in love with repeat pattern design, and the idea that her drawings could go on forever on fabric.

Sarah loves to draw flora from life, one of her favorite subjects. She loves weathered wood, small plants in old bottles and traditional textiles.

In her spare time, she and her husband camp and hike throughout Northeast Brazil, finding incredibly inspiring scenery and vegetation along the way.
